

Important Questions for Any Exporting Company:

- Does your company work to a documented Export Compliance Program?
- Is your staff well trained in adherence to export regulatory requirements?
- Are you certain that the products or technology that you export are correctly classified under the Export Administration Regulations or the U.S. Munitions List?
- Are all foreign sales opportunities screened against the government's various Prohibited Parties lists?
- Can you identify the final End Use and End Users of your export controlled items?
- Are you certain that you always have an active export license (or a license exception) in place when one is required?
- Do you adequately manage the value or number of exported items in accordance with your license's limits?
- Do you have a process in place to handle errors in your export activity?
- Are you experienced in seeking Commodity Jurisdiction decisions or filing Voluntary Self-Disclosures?
- Does your company have multiple locations or foreign subsidiaries?

If you are uncertain of the answer to any of the above questions, Xport Consultants can work with you to ensure that all of your answers are a resounding YES!
